Small Group Discussion Reflections & Questions

Pick Your Gathering

Choose a weekend gathering to be together as the people of God, reminding each other of the goodness and faithfulness of God as we worship him as Lord and King. Let this communal worship of Jesus continue on in your small group:

1. Spend a moment in silence, reflecting on your experience of God's goodness and faithfulness this past week.
2. In response to what has come to your mind and heart, go around your group speaking out gratitude. What are you grateful to God for? Be specific, be open and don't rush through this!
3. What has God been revealing about himself to you lately? What has Jesus been teaching you and growing you in? In worship and wonder, share with each other in what specific ways He has been ministering to you.

Find Your People

We are not meant to be solo Christians. We have the gift of journeying together as we follow Jesus in community. In the context of your small group, our prayer is that this would be a community in which you can be seen and known, where you can generously extend grace to one another, and where you point each other to Jesus as you minister to, and receive ministry from, one another.

1. Take time sharing your highs and lows from this past week. What brought joy and celebration? What brought grief and struggle? As you listen to one another, simply be present to one another, not attempting to fix, solve, or compare.
2. How did this past weekend's sermon intersect what you're going through right now in your own life?
3. This week, in our series on the Apostles' Creed, we looked at the line, "I believe in God the Father, maker of heaven and earth". When you think of God as Father, what comes to mind? How does this compare to your experience of earthly fathers? What have you been learning about God as Father?
4. How do you feel about the Maker of heaven and earth desiring relationship with you? What response does this stir in you?

Do Something

God has always been on mission. As his people, we are not meant to horde the good news of the Gospel all to ourselves, but are to be his sent ones to a world that so dearly needs to know and experience his love.

1. Who is God highlighting for you that you need to reach out to? In the contexts in which you find yourself, what is Jesus asking you to do?
2. Encourage each other with stories of relational opportunities He's been bringing your way in which you've been able to share the love and light of Jesus.
3. As you share, pray for one another, for humility and courage to follow Jesus in the adventure of obedience and surrender.
